Information Required

NOTE: Information covering the items listed below should be entered on 5"x8" cards, bearing the full title of the publication in the upper left corner.

1. Title of publication (identifying any which are official organs of scientific or professional societies); frequency of issuance (whether monthly, quarterly, etc.); name and address of publisher; language(s) used; and annual subscription rate.
2. Contents
 - a. Does the periodical contain biographic information in the form of: (1) full biographic sketches (with or without photo) similar to those in Current Biography and other Who's Who type reference works; (2) biographic briefs or profiles on authors and contributors which merely cite age, academic training, career, etc.; (3) phrases identifying only the author's profession (e.g., nuclear physicist, electrical engineer, Dr. in Math., etc.) and/or position and institutional affiliation (e.g., Charge de cours, Faculte des Sciences de Paris; Attache de Recherches, CNRS: Head, Chemistry Dept., French AEC)? If so, do these items appear regularly? If not, how often do you estimate such data appears?
 - b. Does it contain Personal Notes or Appointment Notices? This section would announce new positions, promotions, retirements and deaths in scientific and technical circles. Are foreigners included? Photos? Any biographic data?
 - c. Does it contain a News section? This is usually international or regional in scope and describes recent activities at universities, scientific/technical establishments, laboratories, etc. To what extent are the participating scientists mentioned? How identified? Are their associates cited?
 - d. Does it contain Conference Schedules or Calendars? Here, forthcoming meetings (local, regional and international) are listed, as well as brief accounts of past meetings, including names and contributions of participants.
 - e. Does it contain a Book Review section? Are authors identified any further than by name and position? Are foreign books included?
 - f. Does it publish a monthly or annual index of authors and subjects?

STATINTL

I am definitely in favor of publishing the results of our survey. We shall use 5x8 cards while preparing the survey - I presume that BR's reference to 5x8 cards concerned
the preparation of the survey.
EB.

Favor an FDD publication
similar to our "publication exploited by FDD".
EB.

Survey should be published. 8x10
seems most logical for all around utilization. W.B.
